

February 28, 2018 EAA Meeting Minutes Chapter 406

6:30 pm Potluck

The meeting began at 7:00 pm and was presided by Terry Donison. There were 19 people in attendance. New faces were Karl Beck and Steve Casper. This was the first meeting name tags have been used. More badges will be made for those who were not on the email list.

There was discussion about the grand opening of the BACE on April 28. There is a need for volunteers to help out with the pancake breakfast (which Wayne Sargent will be in charge of), need of a large grill to cook pancakes, volunteers to bring their planes for static display as well as be available to fly for the Young Eagles that will be held that day weather permitting (George Steed and Mark Swalley volunteers). The purpose of the opening is not only to display the facility, but search for financial support. We need to have a list available for display of potential required items.

It was also suggested that now is the time to return tools that belong to the chapter. Any of the officers can be contacted to help make those arrangements to get all tools into BACE. Hoping to have them returned before our next meeting. An inventory is necessary in order to know what is available.

Susan Shaw, Young Eagles Coordinator, suggested the idea of a once or twice a month Young Eagles day where chapter members would volunteer to be available at the BACE for a few hours to take Young Eagles for flights. Susan would handle the coordination of kids who requested a flight.

George Steed, spoke about Disaster Assistance Response Team (DART) and asked for volunteers to join. A data base is being created with pilot names, abilities, planes, etc. If you have questions about this effort, please contact George.

Roy Runyon mentioned the possibility of having a guest speaker and aviation themed movies, etc. once a month at the BACE as a possible fundraiser. He volunteered to be in charge of this if there was interest

Speaker

Roy Runyon was our guest speaker. He talked about his journey and research on a quest for a light sport plane. He was able to share historical detail regarding specific planes he had been interested in and how the search lead him to something entirely different than planned. He is awaiting to solidify transaction of a Just Endeavor.

The meeting was adjourned at 8:30 pm.
